

Fall 2018

SDX14 - October 5, 2018

Journey through Complexity

Journey with Strathcona County as we explore the use of empathy and simulation to explore the complexities driving the 'how' and 'why' of the current opioid crisis.

SDX15 - November 9, 2018

Prototyping a Toolkit for Energy Efficiency

Join the City of Edmonton and Situ Strategy to help test and craft a toolkit that uses human-centred design and behavioural insights to foster energy efficiency.

Social - December 2018

SDX Annual Holiday Social

The lights will be lit and the fake fireplace crackling - we hope you'll come out for our annual holiday social at Action Lab. Stay tuned for details.

SDX is an Edmonton-based Community of Practice that convenes people interested in learning about systemic design as a methodology for addressing complex, real world issues. Together, we explore systems thinking, design thinking, and lab approaches.

With a bias towards learning by doing, SDX aims to be a watering hole where multiple sectors can come together, learn together, and act together.

SDX is convened by the Government of Alberta CoLab and the Skills Society Action Lab.

All SDX Sessions take place from 1:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Action Lab (2nd Floor, 10408-124 Street, Edmonton).

RSVP Required. Please see Eventbrite or Twitter for registration information.

There is a small admission fee for SDX sessions. Proceeds are used to arrange snacks and plan special SDX events and speakers.