3.1.1.1. The provisions of the legislation, which define the grounds and procedure for bringing subjects covered by the Law "On Prevention of Corruption" to disciplinary responsibility for violating the requirements of anti-corruption legislation, have been improved, with the introduction of basic rules that:

- gross violation of the requirements of the mentioned Law is the basis for bringing such persons to disciplinary liability;
- a separate ground for the initiation of disciplinary proceedings is the fact that a court decision on bringing such a person to administrative liability for committing an offense related to corruption, or closing the proceedings in the case of such an administrative offense due to the expiration of the term of imposing an administrative penalty, has entered into legal force or in connection with the release of a person from administrative responsibility due to the insignificance of the offense;
- the entry into force of a court verdict on bringing such a person to criminal liability for the commission of a corruption or corruption-related criminal offense, as well as the entry into force of a court decision on the release of such a person from criminal liability is an unconditional basis for dismissing a person from office.
